The protection of the Monroe doc trine from challenge was dwelt upon orincipally by Senator J. W. The affair was held in the Sunday school rooms and was attended by several hundred members and their

"Preparedness" was the subject of Senator Wadsworth's address. He declared the trouble in maintenance of the Monroe doctrine lies in the fact that many of those under the protecting wing have no stable governments, and, furthermore, have strange revothese revolutions have been a constant invitation for other countries to step in and say, "Stop fighting and pay your debts." He said the United States naturally is expected to intervene, shoul-

"Few appreciate the vast importance attached to these arrangements with Santo Domingo, Nicaragua and Haiti. The Monroe doctrine has never been challenged, but it does represent a challenged, but it does represent a challenged, but it does represent a challenged in its maintenance. "To believe in preparedness," declared the state of the House of Representatives, 290,000 men to restore order in that country, although, he said, a force of about 15,000 men could move about to any part of the country. He said he hoped the time would never come when this country would have to take such a step.

Senator Wadsworth said that what this country needs in its defense is men. He spoke of the fine fortifications along the coasts and the equipment, but declared two shifts of men are needed propertly to operate the guns, and said that at the present time if the guns were operated at their full capacity.

The Chinese people are not yet fitted to resolve themselves into a republic, Dr. Loomis declared, adding that many years must clapse before they become so; and in support of his belief he quotes the same idea which was expressed by Dr. Frank J. Goodnow, president of Johns Hopkins University, Dr. Goodnow is the man who was sent for by the Chinese government to draft a constitution for the country when it was decided to form a republic there.

Dr. Loomis is himself an expert upon the subject of affairs of China, Japan and Chosen, in the belief of his friends and acquaintances as well as other acterized as "no partisan," "impartial and disinterested" and as one who has friends and influence in the highest uarters in Japan." He went to the far

Not Ready for a Republic.

"Under present conditions." Dr. Loomis said, "the people of China are no mis said, "the people of China are not ready for a republic. I indorse the opinion expressed by Dr. Goodnow, president of Johns Hopkins, who was called to China to draft a constitution for the republic and who formed his opinion after he had studied conditions in China and watched the results of the attempt at work by the Chinese legislative assembly. The assembly never accomplished any real executive work or carried through any adminiswork or carried through any adminis-trative measure. To illustrate, I might say that the only thing they ever agreed upon after months of delibera-tion was that the salaries of the mem-bers of that body should be $6,000 a year each pers of that body should be $6,000 a year each.

"The fact that the assemble accomplished so little was due to the relation of experience in such matters, and the fact that they were young men without experience and many of them just out of college. I might say that their main idea was that the president of the reidea was that the president of the re-public should be a figurehead, and that the legislative body should have all the

the legislative body should have all the power, as in France.

The time when the people of China will be ready for a republic will only come when the people are educated and given some idea of what a suitable and substantial government should be. To make the Chinese people into a republic now would be like what giving the control of affairs to the colored freedmen of the south here after the war would have been. Their only idea of what an official is, is that he is the man who must keep peace, and, above all,

Dr. Loomis was asked as to the details of the reports cabled to this country that Japan has been endeavoring to prevent Yuan Shi Kai ascending the throne. He replied:

Why Tolerate Catarrh?

You have noticed, that any cold aggravates nasal catarrh, and the flow of mucous amazes you that such objectionable matter could find lodgment in your head but to ignore this catarrh when the cold subsides is wrong because it slowly injures the linings of the nasal passages and clogs them up.

To correct catarrh, cleanse the nostrils with warm water and salt, insert vaseline on retiring, and take a spoonful of Scott's Emulsion after meals. Scott's acts through the blood to feed the tissues, and contains soothing glycerine to heal the sensitive membranes. It is pleasant to take. No alcohol. Scott & Bowne, Bloomfield, N.J. 15-20 ignorance of members of the legislative assembly as to political affairs applied even to those who had been abroad. They showed that they were not qualified to administer a government.

"To illustrate: I was not so long ago with my wife in China as the guest of Admiral Tsai. The Chinese assembly had then been in session six months, and at the time of my visit, after they had been in session all that time, they should adopt to control and govern their own body.

"Then, again: The revenue was insufficient to meet the ordinary expenses of the government because only five provinces were contributing. The foreign powers had confidence in Yuan Shi Kai, and for that reason were willing to loan money to China to go on with. Yuan Shi Kai borrowed it, but only against the protest of the assembly.
